Cooperation to Promote Energy Conservation in Brunei

Mitsubishi Corporation (MC) and the Tokyo Electric Power Company, Incorporated (TEPCO; Headquarters: Chiyoda Ward, Tokyo; President: Tsunehisa Katsumata) have agreed to cooperate in Brunei's "Energy Week*", a weeklong event to promote energy conservation that will commence Tuesday September 4th, 2007.

The Brunei government is presently taking active measures to promote the efficient use of natural resources and energy conservation. Since the 1970s, both MC and TEPCO have been involved in the import of LNG from Brunei, and have collaborated to advance energy conservation activities, such as through the dispatch of specialists in this area. When requested by the Brunei government to cooperate in the "Energy Week" event, both companies agreed to do so.

In conjunction with the "Energy Week" event, Brunei's energy ministry worked together with MC and TEPCO to produce a small booklet outlining tips on home energy conservation that fit in with the lifestyles of Brunei's citizens. This booklet is based on know-how compiled in the "Denkochan no naruhodo shoene! Nattoku BOOK (Denko-chan's Energy Saving Book)", which is published in Japan by TEPCO.

At a ceremony held today, attended specially by H.E. Pehin Dato Yahya, the Minister of Energy of Brunei Darussalam, both MC and TEPCO presented 10,000 copies of the booklet. MC also presented 10,000 fluorescent light bulbs of a special energy-conserving design. During the "Energy Week" event, these light bulbs will be distributed to the citizens of Brunei, the intent being to urge more widespread conservation of energy in general households.

In addition, TEPCO will be dispatching an instructor to give lectures on energy conservation at a seminar to be held during the week.

Both MC and TEPCO remain committed to helping promote energy-saving activities in Brunei.
