FY2025 Underlying Operating CF Forecast and Shareholder Returns

- While performance has fluctuated over the past decade due to market factors such as resource prices, earning power has steadily improved, and underlying operating CF has demonstrated steady growth.
- Although FY2025 underlying operating CF is expected to be affected by resource prices, it is projected to remain approximately in line with FY2024 levels, supported by growth in our non-resource businesses.
- FY2025 shareholder returns are expected to consist of a ¥1 trillion share repurchase program (details on the next page), in addition to dividends of ¥110 per share, up from ¥100 in the previous year.

FY2025 Forecast

Operating CF

¥900 bn

Share Repurchase

Underlying Operating CF

Notes: FX rate is set at an average of ¥145/US$ for the fiscal year.

Forecast by segment and other details will be announced on May 2, 2025.

<sup>2</sup> Impact from both cash flows from businesses divested during FY2024 and FY2024 portfolio restructuring.

Purpose of Share Repurchase Program

- In addition to allocating the post-returns FCF generated through Midterm Corporate Strategy 2024 to shareholder returns, we have decided to initiate a share repurchase program totaling ¥1 trillion to further improve capital efficiency.
- Even after this program, our Net D/E ratio is projected to remain below the upper threshold of 0.6x, ensuring strong financial soundness. Accordingly, we will continue to proactively consider disciplined investments aimed at driving growth, utilizing the cash flows expected from FY2025 onward and making effective use of financial leverage where appropriate.
- Of the total ¥1 trillion share repurchases, ¥230 billion will be executed through a tender offer of own shares. This decision was made in response to expressions of intent to sell by certain shareholders, during our review of appropriate measures to address potential sales by cross-shareholders, as part of our ongoing efforts to strengthen corporate governance.
